Additional Police.

Provision was made on the Estimates for 1914 for the appointment of forty-seven additional police, which will tend to relieve the urgent demand for additional police protection.

I desire, however, to impress on the Government the absolute necessity of making a material increase in the strength of the police to meet the almost daily demand for additional police protection in the metropolitan area and large country centres, to cover the appointment of police for the regulation of pedestrian traffic in the city, and also to provide for the establishment of police stations in the new districts that are springing up within the State. To this end, I intend again submitting the matter when the Draft Estimates are under consideration for the financial year ending 30th June, 1915, and trust the Government may be able to provide the necessary funds for the purpose.

Transfers

Transfers from Outlying Districts.

The need for effecting as many transfers from outlying districts as is possible and consistent with economy and efficiency, has been fully kept in view, and sixteen (16) such transfers have been made from the South Western district, and three (3) from the Bourke district, to places where the climate is cooler and the conditions more favourable.

Card System of Records.

During the year the card system of records has been introduced in the Head Office, and it is found to work so satisfactorily that it is proposed to extend it to the offices of the various district superintendents of police throughout the State.

Sunday off for the Police.

The instructions issued by the Government that members of the force should be allowed off duty every alternate Sunday, which has been observed during the year, have now been embodied in an amended regulation.

Amendment and Consolidation of the Regulations.

A committee of superintendents of police has for some time past been engaged in the work of consolidating the regulations and instructions to the police, and I hope shortly to be in a position to submit the result of the committee's work for the necessary sanction.

Police Superannuation and Reward Fund.

The following members of the Police Force were retired on pensions amounting to £6,791 6s. 3d. per annum:—

Four (4) constables were discharged on gratuities amounting to £607 10s., and gratuities amounting to £2,192 18s. 4d. were awarded to the widows of seven (7) members of the Force, in addition to which £94 was allowed for funeral expenses. In the case of the widow of the late Senior-sergeant Edwin S. Hickey, who was killed in the execution of his duty, a pension of £125 per annum was granted for six (six) years, at the end of which period the case will be reconsidered.

During the year twenty police pensioners died, who were in receipt of pensions aggregating £3,155 16s. 5d. In three cases where the pensions had not been in force for five years, allowances were made to the widows in terms of Section 11 of the "Police Regulation (Superannuation) Act," as under:—

Pension of £104 2s. 7d. per annum for five years.

" £138

" 8s. 6d. per diem (less 3 per cent.) until the undrawn balance was expended.

Legislation.

In addition to the amendment of the "Metropolitan Traffic Act," 1900, which is adverted to under the heading "Traffic Branch," legislation was passed during the year amending Part IV of the "Liquor Act" of 1912 in regard to the Local Option provisions. A "Deserted Wives and Children Amending Act"

Act" was also passed into law, providing for the performance by prisoners, committed to prison for failing to support their wives and children, of any specified class of work, and for the payment of the value of such work, less cost of the prisoner's upkeep, in satisfaction of any order of the Court for the support of such wives and children, and certain other necessary amendments.

I desire to invite attention to previous recommendations made by me as to the need for the amendment of the following Acts:—The "Liquor Act," providing for the conditions under which liquor is sold on Good Friday and Christmas Day; the "Billiards and Bagatelle Act"; the "Traffic" and "Motor Traffic" Acts. I also wish to refer to representations previously made by me upon the question of legislation to deal with Sunday Trading, restrictions in the use of pea rifles and saloon guns, Vendors' and Pawnbrokers' Licenses, Crimes Act, Auctioneers Act, Weights and Measures Act, and Bread and Coal Delivery, and the buying and selling of precious stones.

Metropolitan Superintendent's Report.

The report of the Metropolitan Superintendent of Police (Appendix A) discloses a decrease of eight hundred and twenty-eight (828) in the number of arrests and summonses, as compared with the year 1912.

There were increases of one hundred and sixty-one (161) in the number of cases of offences against the person; three hundred and thirty-two (332) of offences against property with violence; one hundred and thirty-three (133) of offences against property without violence; there were decreases of forty-one (41) in the number of cases of forgery and offences against the currency; four hundred and seventy-one (471) of offences against good order; and nine hundred and forty-two (942) of unclassified offences.

It may be mentioned that in the list of offences to property without violence, the property stolen was valued at less than one pound (£1) in one thousand three hundred and twenty-five (1,325) cases. One hundred and eighty-eight (188) persons were prosecuted under the "Games, Wagers and Betting Houses Act," most of whom were Chinese, and fines to the amount of £966 were imposed. Fifty-two (52) persons (25 males and 27 females) were proceeded against under the "Inebriates Act," being a decrease of twelve (12) as compared with 1912, and it is interesting to note that there has been an appreciable decrease in the number of cases each year, since the Act came into operation in 1910, when the total was one hundred and eight (108). Attention is directed to the satisfactory results which continue to obtain under the "Second-hand Dealers and Collectors Act."

The new Water Police Station established at Dawes Point, which was occupied in the early part of the year, commands an extensive view of the harbour, and its position (as pointed out) largely facilitates the work of the police in dealing with shipping matters. During the year the Water Police picked up thirty-seven (37) capsized crafts, the crews of which numbering over three hundred (300) were rescued without loss of life. During the same period they recovered the bodies of thirty-six (36) persons from the harbour.

The total strength of the Metropolitan Police of all ranks on the 31st December was one thousand and ninety-eight (1098), being an increase of 9 as compared with the previous year. The Metropolitan Superintendent pays a tribute to the general conduct and efficiency of the members of the Force in the prevention and detection of crime, the protection of life and property, and the performance of the multifarious duties they are called upon to carry out.

Licensing Inspector's Report.

The year 1913 was the first in which the Liquor Act of 1912 came into operation.

The number of hotels in the Metropolitan District on the 31st December, was 629, being a decrease of 13 during the year, one license having lapsed, and 12 hotels closed by order of the Special Court. Twelve objections were lodged by the Police to the renewal of publicans' licenses, principally on the grounds of structural defects, while in two cases objection was taken to the manner in which the hotels were conducted: eight renewals were granted, three withdrawn and one refused.

Continued improvement is being made in the class of licensed buildings in the district: and out of one hundred and six (106) applications for re-building and alterations, ninety-five (95) were granted. A large amount of work in this direction was done voluntarily by the owners.

The remarkable decrease in the number of hotels in the Metropolitan District since the passing of the principal Act of 1881 is again pointed out, there being now 629 hotels for an approximate population of 650,000 (or one hotel for every 1,033 persons), against 848 hotels in January, 1882, in the (then) Metropolitan District, for a population of 248,231 (or one hotel for every 293 persons), and this notwithstanding the fact that about 150 additional licenses have been granted in the meantime; so that really during the thirty-two years under review no less than 369 hotels have been closed, this reduction being mainly brought about by the vigilance of the Police in bringing undesirable hotels and publicans under the notice of the Licensing Bench, who promptly deal with them as circumstances justify.

No justification is apparent for allegations made that adulterated liquor is sold. During the year 429 samples of liquor were taken indiscriminately from hotels in the Metropolitan District. Six of these samples were found to be below the standard strength, and proceedings were taken accordingly; but not one of the samples taken was found on analysis to contain anything deleterious or injurious.

There are now 93 additional bars held by 80 licensees in the Metropolitan District, being an increase of 4 during the year. The abolition of the large number of private bars which existed prior to the Amending Act, 1905, has done away with many objectionable features, these bars having, in many instances, been formerly sub-let to women of doubtful character, it being extremely difficult for the police to obtain a conviction, or even prevent the practice.

There are now 99 spirit merchants' licenses in the district, being an increase of 2. These licenses are held principally by merchants and grocers; the premises are well conducted, and there is rarely any trouble given. These licenses do not come within the operation of the Local Option Vote. There are 3 brewers' licenses, being the same number as last year. These also are not affected by the Local Option Vote.

There are 140 billiard licenses, an increase of 9; 21 packet licenses, a decrease of 1; and 245 colonial wine licenses, a decrease of 3. The majority of these wine bars are well conducted. The number of registered clubs (43) remains unchanged, 25 of them having obtained exemption from all provisions of the the Liquor (Amendment) Act, with the exception of the payment of the annual registration fee. Some of the bowling and athletic clubs, however, have some slight conditions imposed upon them as to hours of selling, &c. The registration of these clubs continues to have a beneficial effect, and it may be said that bogus clubs of an objectionable character are non-existent.

At the General Elections, held in December last, a third Local Option Vote was taken, with the result that, of the thirty-six (36) Electorates, wholly or partly within the Metropolitan Licensing District, nine (9) carried "reduction" and twenty-seven (27) "continuance." The special Court for "reduction" had not commenced its sittings at the end of the year.

Further statistics will be found in the Licensing Inspector's Report (Appendix "B").

Report of Superintendent of Detectives.

The Superintendent of Detectives (Appendix C), reports that during the year 1913 there were 813 charge and 20 summons cases (as compared with 734 in 1912)

The year was at once strenuous and successful in the detection of crime, some very important captures being made by the members of the Detective Force: notably, three young men for shop and safe breaking, who had caused a good deal of trouble in the city; a burglar operating in the Northern suburbs, who broke into four houses within as many days; an English criminal who committed several serious offences shortly after his arrival, including one of "shooting with intent to murder"; another recent arrival from London who committed 194 cases of housebreaking, and whose apprehension led to the recovery of £1,500 worth of stolen property; several offenders, including an international criminal, for uttering forged bank notes and spurious coins; and a man charged with "receiving" £194 of serge (recovered) stolen from a vessel.

The Merrifield murder was satisfactorily cleared up, and the investigation by the Police in connection with the Punchbowl murder indicated that the death was probably accidental.

Generally speaking, with the exception of some cases of stealing from dwellings, the serious offences reported were satisfactorily accounted for, and the Superintendent expresses his gratification at the eulogies passed by Judges, Magistrates, professional men and others on the efficient work of the Detective Staff.

Finger Print Branch.

I append a report by Inspector Childs (Appendix D), regarding the working of this Branch during the year, from which it is evident that the system is daily becoming more important in the identification of criminals.

The identifications for the year numbered 1,801, as compared with 1,418 in the previous year and 209 for the year 1904, when the system was first adopted by the Department. Five (5) dead bodies of unknown persons were identified by prints taken from the corpses, and as a single example of the immense advantage of finger prints over facial identification, the striking instance in connection with the murder at Yarra Bay, Botany, may be cited. The body of the victim was first identified by a man as that of a friend of his with whom he had resided for a considerable time, and afterwards by a woman as her husband. A comparison of the finger prints of the woman's husband (which were already filed in the Department) with finger prints taken from the corpse identified the victim beyond doubt as her husband. The other person, hearing that he had been identified as the victim, reported at the Department some days afterwards. This man was found to possess a marked resemblance to the deceased, but a comparison of finger prints taken with his permission showed no likeness whatever to those of the deceased.

Four hundred (400) articles were brought to the Branch for examination, while the Officers connected therewith paid 228 visits to various premises in the City, Suburbs and Country for a like purpose. Twelve (12) persons were arrested principally on finger print evidence, ten (10) of these persons were convicted, one stands committed for trial on seven charges, and the other absconded.

Of 312 prints received from the United Kingdom, Foreign Countries and other States of the Commonwealth, 106 were identified, while 109 out of 834 prints sent to these places by the Branch were identified.

During the year, 812 photographs of criminals were received from the Prisons Department, and most of them distributed throughout the Police of the State for record purposes. 6,457 photographs were sent out to the various States and New Zealand, and 20,545 to City and Country Stations; while 1,264 were received from other States and New Zealand.

Criminal Statistics (Metropolitan District).

The station records in the Metropolitan District disclose an increase of 239 in the number of apprehensions as compared with the previous year, viz:—

1912	...	...	...	...	...	...	29,875
1913	...	...	...	...	...	...	30,114

There was, however, a decrease of 1,067 in the number of summonses issued, viz:—

Total number of summonses issued,	1912	...	...	...	6,786
Do	do	1913	...	...	5,719

The following are particulars of the classes of offences for which arrests were made and summonses issued, viz:—

	1912.	1913.
Offences against the person	1,614	1,775
Do do property, with violence	604	936
Do do do without violence	3,112	3,245
Forgery and offences against the currency	65	24
Offences against good order	23,240	22,769
Do not included in the preceding	8,026	7,084
Total	36,661	35,833

Criminal

Criminal Statistics for the State.

The Criminal Returns furnished by the various Superintendents of Police throughout the State (Appendix N) show an increase of 3,303 in the number of apprehensions and summons cases, as indicated by the following comparison of the cases for the respective years :—

	1912.	1913.
Offences against the person	4,534	4,902
Do do property, with violence	1,071	1,350
Do do do without violence...	5,859	6,153
Forgery, and offences against the currency	118	83
Offences against good order	52,084	52,691
Do not included in the preceding	23,291	25,081
Total	86,957	90,260

The more serious class of offences, as recorded in the Police Gazette, show an increase of 791 as compared with 1912.

There was an increase of 3 in the case of murder, 8 of attempted murder, and 1 of manslaughter. On the other hand there was a decrease of 14 in the cases of infanticide and bodies of infants found. There were 25 cases of rape and attempts, an increase of 1, and 100 cases of criminal assaults on young girls, an increase of 27, but a decrease of 2 of indecent assaults on women. The cases of unnatural offences show an increase of 12, those of arson (including attempted arson) an increase of 7. There was 1 case of bank robbery as compared with nil previous year; 2 cases of robbery under arms, a decrease of 4. There were increases of 2 in the cases of garotting, of 30 in the cases of assault and robbery, and 50 of stealing from the person.

There were increases of 1 each in the cases of bigamy and abduction, and 4 in the number of children found abandoned. There were also increases of 82 in the cases of uttering forged cheques and obtaining goods, etc., by fraud; 13 in the number of cases of embezzlement, 219 of burglaries, stealing from the person, etc., and 18 in the number of cases of stealing watches, jewellery, etc.

There were increases of 72 and 238, respectively, in the number of cases of horses and cattle reported stolen, but a decrease of 16 in the number of cases of sheep reported stolen. In 591 out of 933 cases of reported horse and cattle stealing, the animals have since been recovered, while in 28 of the cases of alleged sheep stealing, the sheep have since been found. As previously pointed out from time to time in this connection, reports of this character are frequently made without proper search being made by the owners, it being easier to utilise the services of the Police to trace the whereabouts of cattle and sheep which have been allowed to stray, possibly through neglect.

The number of cases of deserted wives and children was 925, being an increase of 114 as compared with 1912; 359 of these offenders have been arrested by the Police, and 102 others have made provision for their families.

One thousand six hundred and nineteen (1,619) inquests were held on the bodies of deceased persons, as against 1488 in 1912; in 177 cases death was attributable either directly or indirectly to intemperance. There were 145 inquests on fires (an increase of 34 as compared with the previous year); of these 29 were returned as "wilful," 15 as "accidental," while in the other 101 cases the cause was not specified.

Complaints have been made of the increased number of burglaries in the City and Suburbs, but, as pointed out in a separate paragraph, quite a number of the offences have been accounted for and in many cases have been committed by a few individuals during the absence of the inmates from their homes. It is obvious that, however watchful the Police may be, and whatever efforts they may make to prevent offences of this nature, they cannot be successful while householders still continue to lay themselves open by leaving their houses unprotected sometimes for days and weeks at a time.

There were 20 breaches of section 463 of the Crimes Act by prisoners discharged on ticket of leave, an increase of 7 as compared with 1912. Three hundred and twenty-nine (329) "first offenders" were discharged under the provisions of the "Crimes Act," being an increase of 16. Of these 104 were convicted at the Higher Courts, and 225 at the Lower Courts. There were 6 breaches of the conditions of release during the year, a decrease of 1.

The committals to Circuit Courts and Courts of Quarter Sessions totalled 1,240, an increase of 163.

There were only 2 convictions under the "Influx of Criminals Prevention Act," a decrease of 17, this being due to the decision of the High Court in an appeal case; there were 41 convictions under the "Immigration Restriction Act," a decrease of 19.

There was only 1 extradition (to Sumatra) to places outside the Commonwealth, as against 3 for the previous year.

Since the date on which the "Habitual Criminals Act" was assented to (20th September, 1905), 57 persons have been declared to be "habitual criminals," viz. :—

1905	2	1910	2
1906	10	1911	6
1907	11	1912	2
1908	9	1913	6
1909	9
		Total...	57

Thirty-five (35) habitual criminals were under detention on the 31st December, 1913, of whom twenty-five (25) had entered on the indeterminate stage of treatment.

Missing Friends.

One thousand three hundred and eighty-four (1,384) inquiries have been made with regard to missing friends (including 401 from Great Britain and the various provinces of the Empire, and 164 from foreign countries); of these, 889 have been traced as compared with 800 persons traced during 1912 out of 1,203 inquiries.

Traffic

Traffic Branch.

The traffic in the city and suburbs continues to increase, and the number of police attached to the branch increased from 104 in 1912 to 108 in 1913.

The Traffic Police were responsible for 1,371 arrests for offences other than breaches of the Metropolitan Traffic Act and Regulations, and also conveyed 696 persons to Hospitals.

The regular inspection of public vehicles by day and by night was continued with satisfactory results. The horses in use were also constantly under review, and 1,272 horses reported unfit and the owners directed to discontinue using them; 63 convictions were obtained for bad offences of this description.

Owing partly to the discontinuance of separate stands for motor-cabs, there has only been a slight increase in the number of motor-cabs registered during the year, and the number of hirings has decreased, doubtless on account of the increase in the hiring rate from 1s. to 1s. 6d. per mile, though it is represented that the profit to the owners is higher.

Over 2,600 new motor-cars have been registered, and motor cycles have also largely increased in number, the total registration under all classes increasing from 26,269 to 34,989.

It is proposed to amend the Motor Traffic Act in this State, dealing with a number of minor alterations which are found necessary, and the Victorian Government has promised to alter the law in that State so as to make it more convenient and less costly for New South Wales cars crossing the border.

Attention is directed to the amendment of the Traffic Act passed into law during the year, whereunder a Regulation may be made providing for the return to drivers of unclaimed articles left in public vehicles. Other small alterations essential to smooth working have been made.

The records disclose that 2,341 vehicular accidents in the public streets of the Metropolitan Area were reported, of which 45 were fatal.

The convictions under the Metropolitan Traffic and Motor Traffic Acts and Regulations show a decrease of 591 as compared with 1912, notwithstanding that continued attention has been given to the practice of drivers negligently proceeding on the centre or wrong side of the road to the obstruction of the traffic. The number of drivers of public vehicles found under the influence of liquor also shows a satisfactory decrease of 18. In this connection it may be stated that a recent amendment of the Act makes it a specific offence for any person whilst under the influence of intoxicating liquor to drive any vehicle.

Another important amendment has been made in the "Metropolitan Traffic Act" whereby pedestrian traffic on the footpaths has been placed under the control of the Police, and new Regulations on the subject are now under the consideration of the Government.

The revenue under the Metropolitan Traffic Act increased by £253 11s., and that under the Motor Traffic Act by £3,272 1s., or a total increase of £3,525 12s.

Weights and Measures Branch.

The report of the Superintendent of Weights and Measures (Appendix F), discloses that the weighing and measuring appliances in use in the Metropolitan District have been regularly inspected, and that in spite of the fact that the number of traders' premises liable to inspection continues to increase, specially in the outlying suburbs, each one has been inspected annually. The inspection and verification of appliances in use in the country have been more satisfactory than in previous years, the increased efficiency being highly attributable to the new set of Instructions that was issued during the year dealing with the duties of Inspectors under the "Weights and Measures" and "Bread" Acts.

The local standards of ten Country towns were re-verified, and similar work is proceeding with other towns.

The Industrial Award limiting the hours of Bakers' Carters, and thus preventing them from leaving the bake-houses as early as formerly, has had the effect of facilitating inspection under the Bread Act. Such inspections were carried out at 131 bakehouses and 782 shops—an increase of 79 and 182 respectively, as compared with the previous year.

There was a small decrease in the number of appliances submitted to the Metropolitan Office for verification, which the Superintendent attributes to the effect of the outbreak of Small-pox on the Country business of City hardware firms.

Forty-one (41) prosecutions (an increase of 3) were instituted during the year, and fines amounting to £204 15s. imposed (an increase of £110 10s. as compared with 1912).

The small runabout motor car provided for the use of Inspectors continues to give satisfaction, and besides greatly facilitating the inspection of bakehouses, specially where large distances have to be covered, is found to be more economical than the sulky and driver which it replaced.

Attention is again directed to the urgent need for the amendment of the law relating to "Weights and Measures," "Bread," and "Coal Delivery" Acts, which are obsolete and inefficient in protecting the public from fraud.

Extraneous Duties Performed by the Police.

During the year under review, the Police have continued to perform a number of duties and to make inquiries for other Departments of the State Public Service. Early in the year the Police throughout the State were engaged on the collection of the State Electoral Lists; and, later in the year, the compilation of the Commonwealth Electoral Rolls for the Metropolitan Divisions and for the Subdivisions of Hay and Murrumbidgee was undertaken by them.

Frequent reference has been made in previous reports, giving details of duties performed, and I can only repeat what has so often been pointed out, that this work is constantly increasing from year to year. Still under existing conditions, I see no way of having the work carried out as effectively as at present, without enormous cost to the Departments concerned.

Where Police are engaged exclusively in the service of other Departments, the practice has been to charge such Departments with the annual cost of salary and allowances, thus permitting of the employment of other men in their stead for ordinary Police duty.

There were, also, numerous inquiries made at the instance of the Department of External Affairs, Collector of Customs, Deputy Commissioner for Invalidity and Old Age Pensions, and other Commonwealth Departments. In the case of inquiries made for the Deputy Commissioner for Invalidity and Old Age Pensions a uniform charge is made for each case investigated by the Police, and I purpose submitting, for the the approval of the Government, a scheme for charging other Commonwealth Departments for any services rendered by members of the Police Force on the principle that services rendered to the Commonwealth by the State, and vice versa, should be paid for.

The New South Wales Police Band.

The progress made by the Police Band, which numbers between 30 and 40 members, under the able leadership of Captain W. G. Bentley, A.R.C.M., has been quite up to the standard of previous years. The services of the band are in frequent demand at State and Public functions, and also at charitable entertainments, while the usual performances have also been given in the public parks. In September the band attended a Hospital Carnival at Kempsey in aid of the local hospital, and afterwards visited Wauchope and Port Macquarie, where programmes of music were given; while in October the band devoted portion of their annual leave to a tour of several country towns on the northern line, and on this occasion visited Newcastle, Maitland, Muswellbrook, Tamworth, Armidale, and Glen Innes. The tour was a most successful one, financially and otherwise, and the whole of the proceeds, aggregating some £500, went to augment the funds of the local hospitals.

The band received two donations of £10 each, from His Excellency the Governor, and the Police and Firemen's Sports Club Committee, while the usual Government subsidy of £60 also went towards the replacement of instruments, &c.

Telephone Service.

During the year several more of the lines in the Metropolitan area have been converted into a metallic circuit, and a noticeable improvement has been thereby effected. A number of additional stations throughout the State have been connected with local Exchanges, and I purpose recommending that further stations be similarly connected.

Bicycles.

During the year bicycles were supplied to the following police stations, viz.:—Mittagong, St. Marys, Condobolin, Wauchope and Broken Hill (2). Machines have for some years past been in use in the Detective Branch, and all the city and suburban divisions, and they are proved to be invaluable in cases of special urgency and for patrolling the suburban areas in plain clothes. Needless to say, lengthy distances can be covered in a comparatively short time, and at irregular intervals. They have also been supplied in the larger towns in the country districts and other places where the roads are good. Altogether 188 bicycles are now in use in the Metropolitan and Country districts.

Forage.

The expenditure of the Department in respect of "Contingencies" was materially increased during the year on account of the high prices ruling for forage. By making use of the police paddocks available, it was possible to economise as far as was consistent with maintaining the horses in a working condition, but the Forage Vote was, nevertheless, exceeded by some £3,000. A number of additional paddocks were fenced and wire netted, and this policy will be continued so far as the funds at my disposal will permit. In this connection, I desire to again invite attention to the valuable asset the State has in the numerous reserves that have been set apart for this purpose, and to urge the desirableness of retaining every acre that has been so reserved.

Acts of Bravery.

I am pleased to be able to record a number of acts of bravery on the part of a number of members of the Police Force. In each instance, a suitable entry has been made on the record sheet of the Police concerned, and in several cases awards have been made by the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales.

Ambulance and Life-saving Classes.

Twenty-four (24) members of the Force succeeded in obtaining Certificates in Ambulance Work, after attending classes of instruction held at the Police Dépôt during the year under the auspices of the St. John Ambulance Association. There are now 512 Police of various ranks (as shown in Appendix L) who hold Certificates of the St. John Ambulance Association, Railway Ambulance Certificates, &c., and it is almost needless to add that their services are valuable in rendering "first-aid" in case of accidents, especially in those portions of the country districts where a Medical Practitioner is not available.

Fifty-five (55) Police were successful in the "Life-saving" Classes held by the Royal Life-saving Society (New South Wales Branch). Thirty-one (31) were awarded Medallions, while twenty-four (24) others received Proficiency Certificates. As in the case of "first-aid," Police are encouraged to become proficient in "life-saving," and are frequently able to assist in cases of apparent drowning.

Appendices.

In addition to the Reports, &c., previously adverted to, I append the usual statements of the strength and distribution of the Force (Appendix G), showing the nationality of members of the Force (Appendix H), ages and length of service of the Police in the various grades (Appendices J and K).

I also attach a list of buildings completed for the Department and repairs effected to existing police buildings during the year (Appendix M).

Conclusion.

In conclusion, I desire to express my sense of appreciation of the loyal and efficient service rendered by the Secretary and members of the Headquarters Staff, by the Superintendents in charge of districts and branches, and the officers, non-commissioned officers and members of the police force generally. I may safely assert that the Service continues to maintain its high state of efficiency, and the conduct of the Police throughout the State has been excellent.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

ERNEST C. DAY,

Inspector-General of Police.

APPENDIX A.

Police Department, Superintendent's Office,
Metropolitan District, Sydney, 8 January, 1914.

Sir,

ANNUAL REPORT.

I have the honour to report for your information that I am forwarding, under separate cover, the Criminal Return for the Metropolitan District for the year ended 31st December, 1913.

The Return shows that 30,114 persons were arrested during the year, and 5,719 persons proceeded against by summons for various offences, making a gross total of 35,833, being a decrease of 828 on the previous year.

The 35,833 apprehensions and summons cases were made up as follows:—For offences against the person, 1,775; for offences against property, with violence, 936; for offences against property, without violence, 3,245; for forgery and offences against the currency, 24; for offences against good order, 22,769; and for offences not included in the preceding, 7,084.

In the list of offences against property without violence, I might mention that in 1,325 cases the value of the property stolen was under £1.

An increase is shown of 161, on preceding year, of offences against the person; an increase of 332 in offences against property with violence; an increase of 133 in offences against property, without violence; a decrease of 41 in cases of forgery and offences against the currency; a decrease of 471 in offences against good order; and a decrease of 942 in offences not included in the preceding list.

Fines amounting to £966 were imposed on the 188 persons shown as prosecuted under the "Games, Wagers, and Betting Houses Act," most of whom—as in the past—were Chinese.

Under the "Inebriates Act," the year's record gives a total of 52 persons—25 males and 27 females—dealt with at the Metropolitan Courts, the number being 12 less than in 1912. The figures show an appreciable decrease each year since the Act came into operation in 1910, when the total was 108.

Satisfactory results continue to be obtained from the operation of the "Second-hand Dealers and Collectors Act," stolen property in 144 cases, valued at £949, being recovered.

I attach a report from the Acting-District Licensing Inspector, showing that on the last day of the year there were 629 hotels in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being a decrease of 13 since last Annual Report—1 license having lapsed, and 12 closed by order of the Special Court. The reductions in the number of hotels in the District since the passing of the principal Act in 1881 is a special feature of the Liquor Trade. When the Act came into force in January, 1882, there were 848 hotels for a population of 248,231, or 1 hotel for every 293 persons, whilst now, only 629 are in existence, for an approximate population of 650,000, or 1 hotel for every 1,033 persons. Of 429 samples of liquor taken for analysis, not one of them contained anything deleterious or injurious, but six of them were found to be below the standard strength, and in these cases proceedings were taken. The number of Colonial Wine Licenses is now 245—a reduction of 3 during the year. Making a comparison with 10 years ago, there are at present 154 hotels, 119 Colonial Wine, and 10 Spirit Merchants' licenses less than at that time, notwithstanding the large increase in population. It may also be noted that there is a regular and continuous improvement in the class of hotel buildings in the District.

A tabulated return from the Acting-Licensing Inspector is also attached, showing the number of licenses existing in the District in each year, from 1892 to 1913, inclusive, as well as a list of the number and nature of applications to the Licensing Bench during the past year, showing how such applications were disposed of.

Particular attention is paid by the Police to the suppression of sly-grog selling, 40 persons having been prosecuted during 1913, and fines amounting to £1,270 being imposed on the offenders.

During the year there were strikes of the Railway workers at Darling Harbour, the men employed by the Ferry Companies, the Gas Companies employees, and nine others of a minor nature. In the case of the Gas Companies it was found necessary to draft a number of Police from various parts of the Country for special duty in connection therewith. The recent stoppage of work here, affecting the boats directly concerned in the New Zealand trade, also necessitated precautionary measures being taken by the Police in Sydney.

The new Police Station established at Dawes' Point, commanding an extensive view of the Harbour, was occupied in the early part of the year by the Water Police, and its position largely facilitates the police work in dealing with the shipping and coping with the ever increasing calls made upon that Branch of the Service. During the year, the Water Police picked up 37 capsized boats, the crews of which, numbering over 300, were rescued without loss of life; and in the same period they recovered the dead bodies of 36 persons from the Harbour.

The death of the late Sergeant Hickey, who was shot in the execution of his duty at Pymble, in May last, is a sad incident in connection with the year's operations, and two other occurrences may be mentioned in which Police had narrow escapes from what might have had equally fatal results—one was the case of Senior Constable Charlton, who was fired at during the course of a disturbance at the Haymarket, the bullet fortunately being deflected by a leather-covered note-book in the Senior Constable's left breast pocket; the other being that of Constable Myers, who was deliberately fired at by a notorious criminal whom he was arresting at Redfern on a charge of garrotting, the bullet just missing the Constable and wounding the man upon whom the offence had been committed, and who was close at hand.

A Return of Police who performed acts of bravery during the year is also forwarded. In each instance given thereon, a suitable entry has been made on the Record Sheet of the member of the Force concerned, and the courageous conduct in three of the cases has been marked by awards from the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society.

During 1913 a number of Police received instruction in Ambulance work at classes formed by the St. John Ambulance Association, making the total at present 317 of all ranks in the District qualified to render first aid. 37 members of the Force obtained medallions and proficiency certificates from the Royal Life-saving Society during the year. Police are encouraged to attend both Ambulance and Life-saving classes, and there are several instances of prompt and practical action in cases of need by those who have received such instruction.

On the last day of the year, the total strength of the Metropolitan Police of all ranks was 1,098—an increase of 9 on the same day of the preceding year—and I am pleased to say that their general conduct has been very satisfactory, while a high standard of efficiency is maintained in dealing with crime and criminals, protecting the lives and property of the public, and discharging the many extraneous duties which they are called upon to perform.

APPENDIX B.

Licensing Inspector's Office, Sydney, 2 January, 1913.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward herewith my Annual Report on the Licensing business transacted in the Metropolitan Licensing District for the year 1913, being the 1st year under the Liquor Act of 1912, and the 32nd year since the passing of the principal Act in 1881.

Hotels.

There were on the 31st December, 1913, 629 hotels in the District, being a decrease of 13 during the year, viz., 1 license lapsed, and 12 closed by order of the Special Court.

During the year the Police lodged 12 objections to the renewals of Publicans' Licenses, principally on the grounds of structural defects, which required re-building in some instances, and renovations and repairs in others, while in 2 cases objection was taken to the manner in which the hotels were conducted, with the result that 8 renewals were granted, 3 withdrawn, and 1 refused.

Regular and continuous improvement is still being made in the class of buildings in the District. 106 applications for re-building and material alterations were made during the year. Of this number 95 were granted.

A large amount of re-building and material alterations was done voluntarily by the owners of the buildings under the provisions of Section 40 (2) of the Liquor Act of 1912.

The decrease in the total number of hotels in the District since the passing of the principal Act in 1881 remains, as has been pointed out in previous reports, a remarkable feature of the Liquor trade. At the commencement of the Act, on the 1st January, 1882, there were 848 hotels in the (then) Metropolitan Licensing District for a population of 248,231, or one hotel for every 293 persons. On the 31st December, 1913, after 32 completed years, there are now 629 hotels for an approximate population of 650,000, or one hotel for every 1,033 persons—the population during the periods referred to having considerably more than doubled itself. This notwithstanding the fact that about 150 new publicans' and conditional licenses were granted, and the latter confirmed, which makes the reduction still more pronounced; and, if added to the 848 hotels already referred to in existence at the commencement of the principal Act, would bring the total up to 998, so that really during the period covered, from 1st January, 1882, to 31st December, 1913 (32 years), 369 hotels have been closed. This reduction has mainly been brought about by the vigilance of the Police in bringing undesirable hotels and publicans under the notice of the Licensing Bench, who promptly deal with them as circumstances justify.

Quality of Liquor.

The quality of the liquor sold appears to be maintained. During the year 429 samples of liquor were taken from hotels in the Metropolitan Licensing District, on analysis none of which were found to contain anything deleterious or injurious, but 6 samples were found to be below the standard strength. In these cases proceedings were taken, with the result that the fines and costs imposed aggregated £23. Since the fixing of the standards of strength on the 29th November, 1901, to the 31st December, 1913, 4,811 samples of liquor have been taken by the Licensing Inspectors, none of which were found to contain anything deleterious or injurious. The liquor was taken from hotels situate all over the Metropolitan Licensing District from bottles and vessels as being supplied to customers in the ordinary way of business.

There does not appear to be any justification for the allegations made by the public through the Press from time to time that the publicans sell adulterated liquor.

The samples of liquor are now, since the 1st 1908, and each sample has to be divided into three Government Analyst, and the third part is retained

1909, taken under the provisions of the "Pure Food Act" of one of which is handed to the licensee, one part delivered to the Licensing Inspector.

Additional

Additional Bars.

There are now 93 additional bars held by 80 licensees in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being an increase of 4 during the year. This clause still remains one of the beneficial features of the Liquor Act. It has practically done away with the objectionable system that previously existed of sub-letting private bars to women of doubtful character in circumstances in which it was extremely difficult for the Police to obtain a conviction—or prevent the practice through collusion with the barmaids and the publican.

Convictions during the Year.

- 9—Permit persons on premises during prohibited hours.
- 5—Permit liquor to be consumed on premises on Christmas Day.
- 1—Keep open for sale during prohibited hours.
- 4—Permit drunkenness on licensed premises.
- 2—Permit liquor to be consumed on premises during Polling hours on Election Day.
- 1—Supply liquor to a person who was then in a state of intoxication.
- 2—Permit liquor to be consumed on premises on Good Friday.
- 1—Supply liquor to a person of the coloured races of the South Pacific Islands.
- 2—Sunday selling.
- 1—Permit person on premises during Polling hours on Election day.
- 1—Use indecent language in bar of licensed premises whilst open to the public.
- 12—Sell liquor below the legal standard.
- 1—Sell liquor during prohibited hours.
- 1—Receive a gold ring in pledge for liquor.

Total, 43 convictions. Fines and costs aggregating £146 13s. were imposed.

Spirit Merchants' Licenses.

There are now 99 spirit merchants' licenses in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being an increase of 2 during the year. These licenses are held principally by merchants, wholesale wine merchants, and grocers. They are all well conducted, and rarely any trouble is given to the police by the holders of this class of license. These licenses do not come under the operation of the Local Option vote.

Brewers' Licenses.

There are now 3 brewers' licenses in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being the same as last year. These licenses are not affected by the Local Option vote.

Billiard Licenses.

There are now 140 billiard licenses in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being an increase of 9 during the year. These licenses are principally held by hotel-keepers, while the remainder are in billiard-saloons only. They are generally well conducted, and give little trouble to the Police.

Packet Licenses.

There are now 21 packet licenses in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being 1 less than last year. These licenses are held by captains of steamers engaged in the coastal trade.

Colonial Wine Licenses.

There are now 245 colonial wine licenses in the Metropolitan Licensing District, being a decrease of 3 during the year. 50 new licenses were applied for during the year. Of this number 11 were granted, 13 refused, 19 withdrawn, and 7 applicants failed to appear in support of their applications.

In 1903 there were 364 colonial wine licenses in the District, while at the present time (that is 10 years after) there are only 245, being a decrease of 119, notwithstanding the fact that a number of new licenses have been granted each year. These licenses are principally held by grocers, restaurant and oyster-saloon keepers, wine shops, and fruit shops.

The majority of the wine licenses are well conducted. Any to the contrary are brought under the notice of the Licensing Bench when renewals are applied for, and are promptly dealt with by the Bench.

The convictions against holders of colonial wine licenses for the year are as follows:—

- 1—Sly grog selling.
- 1—Allow female under 21 years of age to sell liquor in bar.
- 1—Permit indecency on licensed premises.
- 1—Permit drunkenness on licensed premises.

Fines and costs aggregating £41 14s. were imposed.

Clubs.

There are now 43 registered clubs in the District, being the same as last year. 25 clubs have obtained exemption from all provisions of the Liquor Act, except the payment of the annual registration fee. Some of the bowling and athletic clubs, principally playing in the open air, have some slight conditions imposed upon them as to the hours of selling, &c. The clubs might be classified as follows: 13 recreation and bowling, 10 residential and social, 5 social and literary, 4 golf, 3 social and sporting, 3 rowing and yachting, 1 bicycle, 1 gun, 1 lawn tennis, 1 cricket, and 1 automobile. Total, 43.

The registration of clubs continues to have a beneficial effect on the community, having done away with all bogus clubs of an objectionable character. The whole of the clubs still continue to be well conducted, and bona fide used for the purposes defined in their applications for registration.

Local Option Vote.

The first Local Option vote was taken at the General Elections on the 10th September, 1907, with the result, as previously reported, that of the 31 electorates wholly and partly situate within the Metropolitan Licensing District, 25 electorates carried Reduction of Licenses, and 6 carried Continuance of Licenses.

The 25 electorates in which Reduction was carried contained 399 hotels, and 180 colonial wine licenses. Of this number, 69 hotels, and 25 colonial wine licenses, were ordered by the Special Court to close on various dates between September, 1908, and December, 1913. All these licenses have since been closed. Of the number closed, 59 hotels, and 24 colonial wine licenses, were situate within the Metropolitan Licensing District; and the remaining 10 hotels, and 1 colonial wine license, in the parts of electorates outside the Metropolitan District.

The second Local Option vote was taken at the General Elections on the 14th October, 1910, with the result that of the 32 electorates wholly and partly situate within the Metropolitan Licensing District, 8 electorates carried Reduction of Licenses, and 24 carried Continuance of Licenses.

The 8 electorates in which Reduction was carried contained 86 hotels and 35 colonial wine licenses. Of this number, 10 hotels, and 4 colonial wine licenses, were ordered by the Special Court to close on various dates between October, 1911, and March, 1914. Of the number ordered to close, 7 hotels, and 3 colonial wine licenses are situate within the Metropolitan Licensing District, and the remainder, 3 hotels, and 1 colonial wine license, in the parts of the electorates outside the Metropolitan District.

There were no clubs closed by order of the Special Court in any of the electorates in the District.

The third Local Option vote was taken at the General Elections on the 6th December, 1913, with the result that, of the 36 electorates wholly and partly situate within the Metropolitan Licensing District, 9 electorates carried Reduction of Licenses, and 27 carried Continuance of Licenses.

The Special Reduction Court for the third Local Option Vote has not yet commenced its sittings.

APPENDIX C.

Work performed by the detectives, and crime in the Metropolitan District during the year 1913.

Police Department, Inspector-General's Office, Detective Branch,

Sydney, 15 January, 1914.

Sir,

I have the honor to forward herewith a return of the work, not including inquiries, performed by the detectives during the year 1913. It shows a total of 813 charge, and 20 summons cases; 207 were committed for trial, 49 were sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour, 184 to under six months or fine, 16 remanded to other States, one to the country, and the remainder were either discharged or withdrawn. The total number of charges shows an increase of 99 over those for 1912, which was a record for this Branch.

The past year has been one of the most strenuous and successful the detectives ever had. Their work for that period easily eclipses all previous records for this Branch. Some very important captures were made, notably, three young men for shop and safe breaking, who caused a good deal of trouble and annoyance to business people in the city; a burglar who was operating in the Northern suburbs, and who committed four cases of house-breaking within four days; an English criminal who recently arrived from London, and who, with a local youth, committed several serious offences, including one of shooting with intent to murder; another recent arrival from London, who committed 194 cases of house-breaking, and whose apprehension led to the recovery of £1,500 worth of stolen property; a man for feloniously receiving £194 worth of serge (recovered) stolen from the s.s. "Bellata"; an international criminal for a cleverly attempted bank-note forgery; a local criminal for uttering forged bank-notes; and three spicers for uttering counterfeit sovereigns, and in whose possession were found 78 counterfeit sovereigns and half-sovereigns. The Merrifield murder was satisfactorily cleared up, and the offender convicted. In what was known as the Punchbowl murder, an "open verdict" was returned at the inquest, and from the facts elicited it would appear to be one of accidental death. In connection with the Fulton murder, an arrest was made, but the accused was acquitted. However, the investigation work by the police in this case was considered quite satisfactory.

Regarding crime in the Metropolitan District, I desire to say, with the exception of some cases of stealing from dwellings, ships, and from the person, that all the other serious offences have been satisfactorily accounted for.

In conclusion, I desire to say that it is gratifying to know that the detectives have been complimented by judges, magistrates, professional men, and others for the efficient manner in which they carried out their arduous duties.

I have, &c.,

APPENDIX "D."

Finger-Print Branch.

Police Department, Inspector General's Office, Sydney, 12 February, 1914.

I beg to report for the information of the Inspector-General of Police that greater success has attended the working of this Branch during the year 1913 than in any year since the system was adopted by the Department. The following figures show the results attained :-

Year.	Identifications.	Year.	Identifications.
1904	209	1909	1,065
1905	451	1910	1,156
1906	491	1911	1,164
1907	568	1912	1,418
1908	862	1913	1,801

During the year 400 articles were brought to the Branch for examination for finger-prints, while the officers connected with it made 228 visits to the city, suburbs, and country for a similar purpose. Five dead bodies of unknown persons were identified by prints taken from the corpses, and in this connection a striking example of the absolute certainty with which such identifications are made is afforded. In August, 1913, a man was found murdered, by being shot in the back, at Yarra Bay, Botany. The body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified by a man as that of, say "A," whom he knew well and with whom he had lived in the same house for a considerable time. Later on a woman identified the body as that of her husband, "B." When informed of the second identification, the person first referred to refused to accept it, and said that a mistake had been made. Seeing that a grave doubt existed in respect of the identification, the police took the prints of the corpse, and on searching in the cabinet, quickly identified the body as that of "B," thus confirming the wife's identification and placing the matter beyond all doubt. A day or two later "A," hearing that the body had been identified as that of himself, reported at the Department and permitted his own prints to be taken for instructional purposes. There was without doubt a markedly strong resemblance in the build and facial appearance of the two men, but the finger-prints showed the same wide difference that exists between all prints. So unlike were they that a layman, who had never seen a finger-print before, would have no difficulty in pronouncing them as of different individuals. This instance alone, and there are many such recorded, goes to prove the advantage of finger-print over facial identification.

For

For the period under review, 12 persons were arrested, principally on finger-print identification, and charged with 22 offences; 10 were convicted (two of them pleading "not guilty"). On 13 charges, one stands committed for trial on 7 charges, and one absconded from bail. In the case of the two who pleaded "not guilty" there was evidence regarding a finger-print against one only; both, however, had been seen in company on the day, and near the place of the robbery from the dwelling. Both strongly denied the offence, but the jury, after a somewhat lengthy deliberation, convicted them, and they were remanded for sentence. When again called up, the whole of the stolen property was produced in court, having been recovered through information afforded by the prisoners after their conviction. It is to be regretted that the jurymen, who had heard the evidence, were not present to learn this phase of the case, as it would no doubt have been a source of gratification to them to know that their verdict was correct, and that evidence of identification of finger-print could be absolutely depended upon.

In another case a man had been charged with assault and robbery. Being unknown, his finger-prints were submitted to the Finger-print Branch, where he was identified as having been convicted under various names. Subsequently he denied the names and convictions on oath. Proceedings were eventually instituted against him for perjury. He then admitted the convictions, and was committed for trial. Upon arraignment he pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

I append a statement showing the interchange of records between New South Wales and other places, and the results connected therewith:—

Place.	Prints Received from	Identified.	Prints Sent To.	Identified.
England	6	1	50	17
Germany	0	0	2	0
Russia	0	0	2	0
Belgium	1	1	0	0
America	2	1	8	0
South Africa	10	1	21	2
New Zealand	44	11	127	19
Victoria	69	31	269	35
Queensland	161	47	116	23
South Australia	5	3	86	6
Western Australia	8	6	54	2
Tasmania	6	4	99	5
Totals	312	106	834	109

Knowing the results that have been achieved from the finger-print system in this state, and the world-wide recognition of the important place it occupies in connection with criminal investigation, it is difficult to realise how such work was satisfactorily done without it; but one thing is certain, and that is, that many cases of the past were unaccounted for solely because of the absence of what is without any doubt an infallible method of identification.

Photographic Work.

During the year 1913, 812 criminal photographs were received from the Prisons Department, and most of these were distributed in accordance with the established practice. I might here explain that it is necessary, for the purpose of such distribution, to print copies of each photograph, and this necessitates a considerable amount of work. 6,457 photographs were sent to the various States and New Zealand, while 20,545 were supplied to city and country stations in this State. When it is remembered that each photograph is comprised of a full-face and profile (really two photographs) it will be seen that a considerable amount of work is entailed in connection with this duty.

1,264 photographs were received by us from the other States of the Commonwealth and New Zealand.

W. H. CHILDS,
Inspector.

APPENDIX E. ANNUAL REPORT FOR YEAR 1913.

Sir,
Police Department, Traffic Branch, Phillip and Hunter Streets,
Sydney, 6 January, 1914.
I have the honor to submit my report of the Traffic Branch for the year ended 31st December, 1913.

Strength of Staff.

The number of police attached to the Branch has increased from 104 in 1912 to 108 in 1913. The constant increase in traffic renders necessary such additions to the strength.

Traffic Staff and General Police Work.

The usefulness of the Traffic Police for general purposes is shown by their making 1,371 arrests for offences outside the Traffic laws. They also conveyed 696 injured persons to hospitals.

Public Vehicles.

Public vehicles have been regularly inspected day and night, and were found to be maintained in fair serviceable condition.

Unfit Horses.

The prevention of the use of horses in unfit condition is an important portion of the work of Traffic Constables. During the year 1,272 horses were reported unfit, and the owners directed to discontinue using them. Sixty-three convictions were recorded for bad offences of this description.

Motor-cabs.

There has been only a slight increase in the number of motor-cabs licensed during the year. This is partly the result of the discontinuance of separate stands for this class of vehicle. Touring cars engaged from the garages do a large portion of the work that motor-cabs would probably obtain if separate stands were available. Owing to the cost of running motor-cabs, the rate for hire was, at the request of the owners, increased from 1s. to 1s. 6d. per mile. This caused a decrease in the number of hirings, but shewed more profit to the owners.

Motor Vehicles.

The record of motor cars registered shows a regular increase during each month of the year, over 2,600 new cars being registered. Motor Cycles have also largely increased in number. The total registration, under all headings, increased from 26,269 to 34,989. The Victorian Government has promised to alter their law so as to make it more convenient and less costly for New South Wales cars temporarily visiting that State. An amendment in the Motor Traffic Act in this State has been prepared, dealing with a number of small alterations which are essential for smooth working.

Lost

Lost Property.

During the year 634 articles left in public vehicles were returned by drivers, of which 349 were afterwards returned to the owners. The sum of £46 16s. was paid as compensation to drivers. An Amending Act passed in September, 1912, enables a Regulation to be made, providing for the return to drivers of unclaimed articles, and in other respects provides for improvements in the law.

Runaway Horses and Vehicles.

There have again been several instances of activity and bravery by traffic constables stopping runaway horses and vehicles.

Accidents.

The records show that 2,341 vehicle accidents in public streets in the Metropolitan area were reported, of which 45 were fatal. Of these accidents 1,010 were in connection with tramcars, of which 17 were fatal.

Convictions under Traffic Act and Regulations.

The convictions upon report by traffic police under the Metropolitan Traffic Act, and the Motor Traffic Act, amount to 1,149, a decrease of 591 upon the previous year. Continued attention has been given to the unnecessary and annoying practice of drivers negligently proceeding on the centre, or on the wrong side of the road, to the obstruction of traffic. A motor cycle is continuously used by a traffic constable for the purpose of attending to such breaches of the law. Many reports of minor breaches were dealt with by caution.

The number of drivers of public vehicles found under the influence of drink shows a decrease of 18. A recent amendment to the Metropolitan Traffic Act makes it a specific offence for any person, whilst under the influence of intoxicating liquor, to drive any vehicle. Such person may now be charged with such offence, instead of, as previously, with simply being drunk.

Revenue.

The Revenue under the Metropolitan Traffic Act increased by £253 11s., and under the Motor Traffic Act by £3,272 1s.—total increase, £3,525 12s.

Attached are detailed comparative statements of the work performed.

APPENDIX F.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1913.

Sir,

Police Department, Weights and Measures Branch,

476, Pitt-street, Sydney, 1 January, 1914.

I have the honor to report upon the Weights and Measures Branch for the year ended 31st December, 1913.

Inspection and Verification, Metropolitan District.

The weighing and measuring appliances in use for trade in the Metropolitan District have been regularly inspected. Visits have been made to 11,064 premises, and 97,345 articles examined, showing an increase of 129 premises and a decrease of 1,646 articles on the figures for the preceding year. The number of traders' premises liable to inspection continues to increase, especially in the outlying suburbs, but so far it has been found practicable to visit each one annually.

Country Inspection.

Inspection and verification in the Country Districts have been more satisfactory than in previous years. A new set of "Instructions" dealing with Inspector's duties under the "Weights and Measures" and "Bread" Acts was issued during the year, and the increased efficiency shown is in some measure due to this publication.

Re-verification of Local Standards.

The local standards of ten Country Towns were re-verified during the year, and six other sets are at present receiving attention. Every effort is being made to expedite this work.

Bread Inspection.

Inspections under the Bread Act were made at 131 bakehouses and 782 shops, an increase of 79 bakehouses and 182 shops compared with 1912. Industrial awards limiting the hours of bakers' carters, and thus preventing them from leaving the bakehouses as early as formerly, has had the effect of facilitating inspection to some extent. In the great majority of instances bread examined proved to be full weight.

Metropolitan Verification—Revenue.

A small decrease is shown in the number of appliances submitted at the Metropolitan Office for verification, probably due to the interference with the country business of city hardware firms during several months of the smallpox epidemic. As a result of this decrease, fees collected were less by £52 than during 1912.

Prosecutions.

Forty-one prosecutions were instituted during the year, being an increase of three, and fines amounting to £204 15s. were imposed, an increase of £110 10s. over 1912.

Motor Vehicle.

A small runabout motor car purchased in July, 1912, continues to give satisfaction, and besides providing a more rapid and effective means of transit, especially where considerable distances have to be covered during bakehouse inspections, actually effects a considerable saving in cost as compared with the sulky and driver which it replaced.

Amendment of the Law.

I desire to again call attention to the necessity for amendment of the "Weights and Measures," "Bread," and "Sydney Coal Delivery" Acts, each of which is obsolete and ineffectual in protecting the public from fraud.

Statements are attached showing details of work performed under "Weights and Measures Act," "Bread Act," and that portion of "Coal Mines Regulation Act" relating to weighing machines used in collieries.

I have, &c.,

A. EDWARD,

Superintendent of Police.
